RIOT IN ARKANSAS.

Four Men Killed and Others Wounded at Siloam Springs.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 12.-Reports of a serious riot at Siloam Springs were eceived here this afternoon. Four men were killed and others seriously hurt. For me months there has been trouble among the men employed on the railway construction work near the springs, they being made up of foreign born and native citizens. Two or three weeks ago there was a row which for a time threatened bloodshed. After supper last night two men, Clendening and Fleming, got into a quarrel about some trivial affair and in no manner conmected with the past trouble. They drew pistols and before they could be restrained they fired several shots at each other, both being fatally wounded. The encounter drew all the men in the camp together and when the disputants fell on the ground the pent up excitement burst, precipitating a riot. Shot after shot was fired and knives, clubs and stones were used. Deputy United States Marshal Proctor hastened to the scene and ordered the men to disperse. cene and ordered the men to disperse le was attacked by three or four person and in self-defense was compelled to kill two of his assallants. He was wounded seriously, but his action stopped the fight and prevented further bloodshed. Several arrests were made, but a good many of hose who engaged in the fight escaped.

CRUISE OF THE MONTEREY.

The Big Floating Battery Leaves San Diego for the South.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 12.-The coast defense vessel Monterey departed from here with more secrecy than is usually the case when a vessel leaves on a leisurely cruise. The fact that Lieutenant Baker, of General McCook's staff, arrived in haste from Denver and is believed to have embarked on the Monterey adds to the mystery of her destination. A hint was dropped by one of the officers before sailing that the vessel was going to Corinto and that the authorities at Washington indulged in a little fiction regarding a cruise to Callao to keep inquisitive people off the scent. The sudden illness of Surgeon Whiting assumed so grave an aspect that a strong attempt was made to secure another officer in his stead for the cruise, but owing to the short stay of the Monterey it was impossible, and he sailed with his ship. The cruiser Olympic is not expected until next week, and it is stated that her stay will be as brief as the Mentercy, merely long enough to replenish coal and hurry away toward Nicaragua.

A Match for the Royal Arthur. SAN FRANCISCO, April 12 .- "The Monterey is undoubtedly going to Corinto, Nicaragua, and not to Callao," said Dr. Hibbett, surgeon of the Bennington, now at Mare Island. "No matter what the dispatches may say, we in the navy feel sure that she is going down the coast to meet the Royal Arthur, the large English cruiser which is headed that way. The Monterey is probably sent to watch the big English ship. The Royal Arthur is the best of her class. At long range she would be no match for the Monterey, but she might make it interesting for her at close quarters. The Monterey could not be handled as quickly as the Englishman, and at short range might suffer from torpedos. Out at sea, however, the Royal Arthur would be no match for the Monterey. The big guns would make no impression on the Monterey, and those of the lafter would probably lift the Englishman out of the water. In the navy out here there is no such feeling that the Monterey could not cope with the Royal Arthur." the Royal Arthur, the large English cruiser

MUNCIE'S CHIEF CHARGED WITH BRIBERY BY TEN PATROLMEN.

Fugitive Kelly Nearly Broke Out of North Judson Calaboose-Crown Point Murder Mystery.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MUNCIE, Ind., April 12.-Muncie's Metropolitan police commissioners, two Democrats and one Republican; assembled in spe cial meeting to-day to investigate charges preferred against the Democratic superintendent of police, James Miller, by ten of the patrolmen. A few days ago policemen Benadum, Turner, Seldomridge and Benbow, Republicans, and Alstadt, Deems, Gallagher, Coffey, McIlvaine and Mock, Democrats, met and prepared a petition, in which they preferred charges and each prepared his resignation. They notified the board that Miller had to be removed or their resignations accepted. Sworn state-ments of the patrolmen and others were taken. Miller is charged, it is claimed, with incompetency, showing partiality, and with accepting bribes from criminals and letting them escape the clutches of the law. letting them escape the clutches of the law. The particulars are not known, but it is claimed the men have been engaged for several weeks collecting evidence. It is further stated that after the commissioners have finished their work the policemen will go before the grand jury. The examination will likely continue all of to-morrow, when either the policemen or superintendent must get off the force.

Chief Miller has been identified with the police force of Muncle for fifteen years, and many of his friends are slow to believe many of his friends are slow to believe the charges will be substantiated. For years there has been petty jealousy in the ranks of the Muncie force, and this has much to do with the prosecution. The chief will probably bring counter charges and the ax will fall on others who are said to have been accomplises with the supering the ax will fall on others who are said to have been accomplices with the superintendent. The members of the board of commissioners are Val Gilbert, Vernon Davis and W. E. Hitchcock.

A year ago Superintendent Miller was charged with unseemly conduct with Martha Goddard. The girl came to Muncle from West Virginia and called at police headquarters for assistance. She alleged that the chief kept her for weeks at a boarding house. Mr. Miller made such a denial that the commissioners exonerated him at the time.

Mysterious Features to the Pauline

Ellwanger Murder. CROWN POINT, Ind., April 12.-What at irst appeared to be a rather ordinary and bungling murder committed by a drunken develop into a sensational and peculiar case. Instead of a practically unknown Bohemian woman, the victim turns out to be the sister-in-law of ex-County Commissioner Michael Wasserman, of Chicago, and the undivorced wife of about three men. Her last husband, it is thought, is either a fugitive from justice or has himself been murdered, while the woman's two brothers are locked up, practically charged with inciting the husband to murder their sister. A letter written by Ralph Bechtel, of Philadelphia, Pa., was found near the body of the murdered woman. The writer reveals that the woman has been married twice before and offers to help her in case she should get into trouble over her martwice before and offers to help her in case she should get into trouble over her marriages, first to a Mr. Gregg, and then to Ellwanger. There are plenty of people who believe that the missing husband, Otto Ellwanger, did not murder his wife, and as many more who think he has himself been murdered. He bore the character of a particularly peaceable man. There are evidences that more men than one went to the Ellwanger farm Tuesday morning. The police have offered a reward for Ellwanger's apprehension.

One of the Husbands.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.-Ralph Bechel, a former husband of Pauline Ellwanger, was seen to-day at his home, 231 North Ninth street, by a reporter. He said he married the woman in Chicago when she was but seventeen years old. They came to this city, but after living together for six years they separated and his wife returned to Chicago. Bechtel secured a divorce and the woman at once married a Chicago man. Bechtel says he has not heard from her since she married Ellwanger.

DE PAUW'S GRAVE. The Mystery Cleared Away-A Great Uncle of the New Albany Family. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

COLUMBUS, Ind., April 12.-The mystery surrounding the grave of Charles De Pauw, which was found here a few days ago, has been cleared away. DePauw was one of the first men to come to this county, and was a purchaser of three of the first lots offered for sale in this city. These lots were sold by him, a short time before his death, to men who have long since died. His remains will be removed to this city. Hon. Joseph I. Irwin has received the appended letter from Mr. N. T. DePauw, of New Albany:

"I see in to-day's Indianapolis Journal sensational article about my great-uncle, early settlers of your city, and whose tomb was erected by another great-uncle, N. B. DePauw, about 1839 to 1840. I have always understood that the ground on which Charles DePauw was buried belonged to him. If so, the desecration of his grave with a plow is certainly unwarranted. Won't you please look into the matter for me? Probably the best thing would be to remove the remains, tomb, etc., to the graveyard."

Charles DePanw's Purial Place.

To the Editor of the Indi napolis Journal: Your Columbus correspondent is too young to give a correct history of olden times here. Instead of the place where Colonel Charles DePauw was buried being a wilderness sixty years ago the writer remembers that more than sixty years ago he gathered more than sixty years ago he gathered luscious ripe peaches from an orchard less than a hundred yards from the grave, and instead of no traveled road being within a mile of the place of burial, a State road from Columbus to Bloomington was less than a quarter of a mile away and the old Mauck's ferry road, from Mauckport, on the Ohio river northward, was less than three-quarters of a mile from the place. Mr. DePauw was a colonel of the Indiana militia and a much respected young man. He married Miss Cynthia Troutman, daughter of Peter Troutman, who at that time lived in a brick house, and who was buried in the same family burial ground with Dein the same family burial ground with De-Pauw. SLAUGHTER IN PERU

AN EVEWITNESS'S ACCOUNT OF THE BLOODY FIGHTING AT CALLAO.

Five Thousand People Killed by Bullets and Fire and Left Unburied Until the Bodies Decomposed.

NEW YORK, April 12.-Among the passengers who arrived on the Allianca, from Colon to-day, was Henry Wilson, a Liverpool merchant, who has been in Peru for eight years. Mr. Wilson told a graphic story of the fighting in Peru during March and described in vivid terms the fight between the Montanas and the government troops, which resulted in the death of five thousand people by shot and fire. The real cause of the revolution in Peru, as Mr. Wilson understands, is the effort made by Caceras, who was President for one term, to gain control of the nation by buying out Vice President Sator on the death of President Bermodas. President Bermodas was in office for three years, after serving which time he died. Sator was the Vice President and Mr. Wilson says, in order to get him out of the way he was bought out by Caceras, who immediately assumed the reins of the nation. The fight in which so many soldiers and insurgents were killled began at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of March 17, when the Montanas, under cover of fog, took possesssion of Piercola. All the telegraph wires connected with the city were cut and all the roads leading into it were blocked. The insurgents then went to Callao took up a position in the middle of the city, near the pubplaza. This occupation of Caloccurred three days following the invasion of the insurgents, and was the cause of the insurgents clashing with the troops. In the fight during the day which followed, in the city, two thousand men were killed, equally divided between the two armies. In addition to this about three thousand people were killed by the fire which all but wiped the city out of existence. Two men were chosen to represent the government and two the insurgents. and these four men selected a fifth. Together a truce was agreed upon, to last until the dead bodies could be buried. SUICIDE OF PAUL SCHULTZ.

Well Known as General Land Agent of the Northern Pacific Railway.

TACOMA, Wash., April 12.-The dead body of Paul Schulz, general land agent of the Northern Pacific railroad, was found in his bed, at 3:45 p. m., by Henry, his Japanese servant. The shooting occurred about 11:30 o'clock this morning. He fired a bullet into his right temple with a thirty-eight caliber revolver. The bullet went through his head. When found his hands still grasped the revolver. He was in bed and wore our his night clothes. Despondency and toss of his position was undoubtedly the cause. his night clothes. Despondency and loss of his position was undoubtedly the cause. His financial affairs are badly tangled up.

Mr. Schultz was one of the best known men in the Northwest. He entered the Northern Pacific service under Henry Villard, and, nearly ten years ago, was made general land agent at the west end of the road. During the last year or so his policy of management had not been approved by the Northern Pacific management, and frequently it had been rumored that he would be removed. Last Wednesday he announced himself that he had resigned at the request of Land Commissioner Phipps. Ize did not seem to feel badly about the matter then, but it is certain he felt keenly that the removal showed a lack of appreciation of his services. He was president of the Yakima Investment Company, owner of the Great Sunnyside, in Yakama county, with assets of over $2,000,000, and president of the Tacoma Railway and Motor Company. Both companies are in receivers' hands, and he was one of the receivers of the former company. The financial difficulties of that company had caused him much trouble. THE OLD WOMAN.

Her Popularity Will Not Be Impaired by the New One's Clatter.

New York World. Our ears are much assailed just now with chatter of the "new woman." She comes to the front in novels of the so-called ethical purpose like "The Heavenly Twins," and also in novels like "Dodo," for whose perverted purpose some other descriptive term than "ethical" must be devised.

She exploits herself in politics and in bloomers, on committees and on bicycles, with eloquent words on her lips and with a cigarette between them.

She has set up a new theory of life She has set up a new theory of life which, broadly interpreted, is that man is to submit himself to unaccustomed re-which, broadly interpreted, is that man is to submit himself to unaccustomed restraints, while woman is to enjoy full liberty to do as she pleases.

In all this the new woman makes herself very interesting and piquant, and even charming, in a way. Under proper conditions and for a limited time she may be a stimulating companion, with her freedom of manner, her large acquisitions, her ready wit and her elastic philosophy, which holds the moral law to be a rule of conduct applicable to everybody except to herself when she desires to disregard it in any particular.

In brief, the new woman is making a deal of noise in the world and occupying a space in the public attention wholly out of space in the public attention wholly out of proportion to her importance, numerically

But however much we may be interested in the mental, moral and philosophical gymnastics of the new woman, we have lost none of our reverence for the old woman, nor have we suffered the new to supplant her in our affections.

"Male and female created he them," and however interesting experiments at obliterhowever interesting experiments at obliter-ating sex characteristics may be to speculative minds, the average man still gives his love and reverence to the old woman and her womanliness, and the majority of women are perfectly aware of the fact. women are perfectly aware of the fact.

The old woman has been the mother and the companion of man ever since man eeased to be a monkey, and man is, on the whole, perfectly satisfied with her. He looks back with loving reverence even to the spankings with which she disciplined him in childhood for his own good. He regards with awesome delight the self-sacrificing and on his part undeserved deference with which in his maturity she has ministered to him and stimulated in him a wholesome desire to be clean enough and upright enough to deserve her companionship.

The old woman has no theories. She looks at life with open, honest eyes. She knows herself to be a woman and is content. She may or may not know Greek and mathematics and Browning. She may not ride a bicycle nor be a "clubbable fellow." ride a blcycle nor be a "clubbable fellow."
But she knows how to love in all the tenses of daughter, sister, wife and mother in such fashion that her loving is the highest possible ministry to man, a perpetual example of duty honestly and modestly and wholesomely done.

The new woman, with all her brilliancy and clatter, has not supplanted the old, and never will while man remains dominant in this curious old world of ours. Ruth still means more to Boaz than Dodo means to anybody, and the woman who cheerly sings anybody, and the woman who cheerly sings over her ministry, whatever it is, will never be ousted by the stateswoman or the spectacled philosopher from her throne in the hearts of men while the love of home en-

A larger cultivation of the mind is her right, and in nonessentials a larger liberty is her proper privilege. But it is the woman and not the imperfect simulactum of a man that all mankind adores.

ENGLISH WOMEN AT FOOTBALL. Their Play Said to Have Been Marked by Neither Grace Nor Skill.

London World. London World.

Seldom has the "new woman" shown herself so supremely absurd as on last Saturday afternoon, when a couple of feminine teams played a football match in the grounds of the Crouch End Club. Only one player wore skirts, Mrs. Graham, who made a capital goal tender for the Red, or North team. All the rest were in Turkish trousers and loose Jerseys, with their back hair stuffed into caps not unlike those which some years ago used to be worn by brewers' draymen. In the North team the Jerseys were red and in the South blue, and though the blendings of the colors was not unpicturesque when the teams were mixed, it would be an excess of gallantry to say that the costumes were graceful. mixed, it would be an excess of galantry to say that the costumes were graceful. So ludicrous was it that when the teams trotted on the field the assembled thousands burst out into a roar of laughter.

Nor did the subsequent play in any way diminish the mirth of the onlookers. A few of the ladies were of an amplitude of figure, that made their gambals over and few of the ladies were of an amplitude of figure that made their gambols over and around the ball rather elephantine than elegant. Their running, too, had a languorous ease which one does not look for on a football field, and as for their kicks—well, they kicked the ball in much the same way as a kitten will push a reel of cotion. Unlike the kitten, however, they did not dash after the ball to give it another impetus, but for the most part strolled gently toward it most part strolled gently toward it. the most part strolled gently toward it. Now and again there were some smart bits of play—particularly by Miss Glibert, who, being very diminutive and as lithe as a boy, earned the soubriquet of "Tommy." but the energy of the players was spasmodic. They speedily became fagged, and, with their hair flying down their backs, lost their wits, broke the rules over and over again, and played the game out with a confusion of "backs." "half backs." "centers" and "forwards" which was exceedingly funny, and caused immense amusement to the assembled crowd.

Probable Murder in Obio. MINERVA. O., April 12.—Last evening John Yengling, son of G. F. Yengling, president of the Minerva Banking Company, quarreled with his wife and attempted to shoot her. She escaped from the house, when Yengling began to beat his little daughter. Thomas E. Booth was attracted by the screams and attempted to rescue the child. With a curse Yengling pulled a revolver, firing twice, one bullet entering Booth's head. Booth's condition to-day is critical. Yengling is in jail, strongly guarded.

Pool Operator Irwin's Books. PITTSBURG, April 12.—John D. Bailey receiver for George Irwin's discretionar actions on the Chicago Board of Trade in which the funds of the pool are alleged to have been lost. The books now in the hands of the receiver show that in four months Irwin deposited for the Lincoln National Bank over $1,000,000. The books also show that the total amount of money put into this pool by depositors was $2,700,000.

COUNTRY HOUSE PARTIES.

Lady Celin Campbell Does Not Think Much of Such Gatherings.

The Cosmopolitan.

No one who will honestly examine his soul on this question will not find the answer come out unhesitatingly and pat, "Country house parties are a deadly bore." The cloud already appears, bigger than a man's hand, when you arrive at the end of the railway journey. You have to drive, probably in a closed carriage, which is already bad enough, for some miles in company with fellow-victims upon whom you have never set eyes before. You have to make conversation; dive for points of contact. It is horribly depressing. You talk about he state of the roads, the landscape (if it as summer), the fineness of the trees, the last new play, the new woman, any of the trite subjects which language was invented to avoid, and you feel your brain becoming sensibly more pulpy every moment, the you look forward to the goal of your fourney, which you regarded a short three becames with child distant as a haven your formey, which you regarded a short time besere with chill distaste, as a haven of relies.

But when you reach it you are discouragingly conscious that, in spite of your best efforts, your greeting must wear a forced and pinchleck air; and after tea, during which such acquaintances as may be present greet you with an intimacy which you probably resent, and the strangers eye you with a what-kind-of-a-person-will-this-turn-out-to-be air which stiffens your already rising bristles, you are glad to get to the solitude of your room and gather your forces for the series of trials which now lie before you. You will find yourself posed at 10 o'clock in the morning with the hopeless question, "Now what would you like to do?" Under pains of appearing rude and unsociable you cannot insist too much. To save your temper the annoyance of further discussion, you accept any proposal that is put forward. Such proposals are generically similar; their result is that you are sent off, against your will, to do nothing, in which employment you are to be aided by companions in slavery, who probably feel the weight of the chains as much as yourself and are equally engaged in the endeavor to appear as if there was nothing they liked so much. On occasions of this kind I have felt an almost irresistable inclination to do anything to prove that I have not lost my individual will; climb the nearest flower bed; but, fortunately for my reputation for sanity, I have hitherto been able to preserve my self-control far enough to avoid such open breaches of civilized decorum.

But to revert to the average week-day afternoon. The marked difference between this and the morning is that you are frankly and openly constrained to do the will of your hosts and not your own. You are one of a certain number of pawns in their hands, to be moved as they please. I will take, as being the more usual hospitable device for the pleasing of guests, that of being driven to places of interest. This, to begin with, entails a haphazard grouping of the pawns which may turn out quite contrary to their taste. Even the morning experiences are better, for if, during them, you find yourself chafed beyond endurance, you can always, as a last resort, invent some plausible excuse for leaving your companions and making your way to the house to soothe your nerves a little in welcome solicitude. But it is quite impossible for you to stop the carriage and insist upon getting out.

The drive back may be preceded by a redistribution of the pawns. Unless, however, you have extraordinary luck, this will produce no amelioration of your lot, and you will reach the 5-o'clock tea table tired out, nerves exhausted, depressed.

Dinner time, which follows, is perhaps the least trying of your country-house so-Dinner time, which follows, is perhaps the least trying of your country-house social experiences. It is not better, and, on the whole, it is probably not worse than the usual dinner party. True, there is often imported into the conversation an undue mixture of horsy and doggy talk; and not unfrequently, also, there is disproportionate discussion, among country people who may be present, of people and questions of merely county or local importance, in which it is really beyond the power of visitors from other parts of the country to beat up any interest. Still, the dinner, and the after dinner, is less trying than the rest of the day.

Remains of Jefferson Davis, Jr. RICHMOND, Va., April 12.-The remains of Jefferson Davis, ir., were interred in the Davis section at Hollywood this after-con. The officers of the Davis Monument ncon. The officers of the Davis Monument Association drove with Mrs. Davis and Miss Winnie to the cemetery. Mrs. Davis was accompanied by Hon. J. Taylor Ellison and Miss Winnie by Mr. James Richardson, of New Orleans. The services at the cemetery were very simple and were conducted by Rev. Doctor Carmichael, rector of St. Paul's Church. On the bier rested a silk Confederate flag, the same that was used when the remains of Jefferson Davis were re-interred.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 12.—A dynamite bomb sever inches iong, and of the diameter of a gas pipe, was found in a beer keg by some workmen in Springer's brewery this afternoon. It was made of wrought iron, heavily charged and capped at both ends. Attached to it was a paper fuse filled with powder, which had become saturated with the beer in the bottom of the keg. The keg was one of a large number that arrived to-day and no trace of its last point of shipment can be had, but it is thought to have come from some town in the coal regions.

Smallpox on a Steamship. Smallpox on a Steamship.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—The steamer Coptic, the latest addition to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's service, made her first trip from Hong Kong and Yokohama to this port to-day, flying the yellow flag. Soon after leaving Hong Kong, two of her firemen were stricken with smallpox. On her arrival here the Coptic was fumigated and sent into quarantine for fourteen days. She brought an exceptionally large number of passengers, among them twenty-five Annapolis cadets returning from the Asiatic station for final examination.

Lightning Around the Tower. The hard rain which came early last evening was accompanied by severe lightning, the first of the season. The storm came from the northwest and seemed to center near the courthouse and Tomlinson Hall. John King, the tower watchman, had to leave his post so severe was it. The tower shock and it seemed as if a ball of fire broke above it. What few pedestrians were on the street thought for a time that the tower had been struck, but such was not the case.
